Richard,

Thank you for sending this response. If you are not using the pump this year then there is no need to install the measuring device this year. However, you will need to install the device in any subsequent year if you intend resuming use of the pump. If you resume use in a subsequent year, the device must be installed prior to diverting water. If the watermaster or Department finds that the pump is being used without a measuring device, then we may direct the watermaster to shut the pump shut off until compliance is reached and/or initiate a notice of violation.

Thanks again for the written update.

Regards,

Tim Luke

Mr. Luke I called you on the phone the other day and discussed not using my water out of the Bear River this year. You told me to send you a letter stating that I would not be using it. I will not be using it this year. Therefore does this satisfy not having to put in the measuring device this year?
